Reviews

It is fantastic and great. It usually will not charge an excessive amount of. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

DISTRICT SIX: LEST WE FORGET (PAPERBACK)

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Reprint. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The context is Cape Town, South Africa of the 1930s as seen through the pre-teen eyes of the author, Yousuf Joe Rassool when life was one interminable summer . This family history covers the era of Gandhi in South Africa through the early Anti-Apartheid struggle. Rassool recalls characters of the time with a crystal clarity that is both the blessing and curse of those who went into exile. He brings to life No. 7 Buitencingle Street, the unoccupied and shuttered ancestral family home of the Gools that is opened to their relatives, the Rassools, as temporary accommodation. The house, now run down, spoke of a former grandeur, of lost nobility and wealth. It was once the venue of dignitaries, politicians, and intellectuals including Dr Abdulla Abdurahman, Henry Sylvester Williams, and MK Gandhi. Gool and several other associates including Dr. A. Abdurahman (who formed the African People s Organization), J. M. Wilson (Gool s African American accountant and business partner), Advocate Henry Sylvester Williams (who had called the first Pan African Congress and was the first black man to serve on the Cape Supreme Court) and J. W. Boyce became increasingly involved in the campaign to protest the erosion of the rights of non-whites, eventually leading to a strong political support of and friendship with Gandhi. Gool wrote to Gandhi in 1897. Gool and his associates shared the same belief that education was an essential weapon for their children to resist the assaults on their human rights. Their outlook transcended notions of race and was visionary even by today s standards. These visionaries were by no means revolutionaries - they did not propose the overthrow of the government nor Empire...
