That the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born, who should arise and declare them to their children. That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments. It is useful at certain periods, to recall to remembrance the former times; to review the early history of States, Towns and Communities and watch the various steps in their progress from infancy to manhood. Such recollections of the past, have a good moral influence on the generations present and to come. We learn in some degree, to appreciate the hardships of those who were as (he pioneers of society and who first made the sound of the axe to be heard in the forest. We are better prepared to estimate the advantages we enjoy, and the responsibility that attends the possession of such advantages. We feel that we are connected, in an important sense with these who have lived in ages past, and with those who are yet to come, that an influence must go down from generation to generation and continue to flow onward to the end of time. More than a century has now transpired since the first settlement of some towns in our vicinity; and it is exceedingly important, as time elapses and the aged are passing away, that we should endeavor...
