Excerpt from Portland Stone, Beton Agglomer Argument Showing Its Suitability, Above All Other Material, for Head-Stones for Our National Cemeteries At the Paris Exposition of 1867 there were presented specimens of the various applications of this important material, including a pavilion, as illustrative of its adapted ness to building in mass; lin tels, cornices, friezes, paving slabs, monuments, urns, statues, and nearly every other im portant object in which stene is commonly employed, whether for useful or ornamental purposes. The Beton Agglomer must be regarded as one of those new and useful things which the Exposition of 1867 was first to bring conspicuously before the world.
