Amazel Enterprise, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Diabetes, Hypertension, Glaucoma, Cataract and also the pre-requisites for being a nurse are covered in this most memorable, ingenious rhyming format. Amanda Jones writes to educate. The inspiration for this book came after visiting the diabetic ward to checkup on her friend s Dad. An excerpt from POEM VII states: The threat which diabetes posed was so evident, As I stood in the open ward viewing its residents. Diabetes showed no mercy for age, creed or colour, Since disregard to caution placed the odds in its favour. Effective education in action occurs when someone has the knowledge required to do what is necessary to prevent what could have been avoided. An example as simple as the wearing of diabetic socks which are comfortable and slips on easy over ankles, non-binding and are not tight. Amanda Jones writes to encourage. Being a nurse, Amanda reaches out not only to patients but also to nurses. In POEM XII, she shares the following: Inconsiderate thoughts and mechanical action, Are now becoming the qualities of today s human. But from this we must desist, As our goal should be to uplift. Nursing is her passion and she strongly believes that a good nurse will always go the extra to show compassion, love and respect as it is an important attribute of the profession. Amanda Jones writes to empower. In Poem V, she shares information on Glaucoma that once read, empowers the reader to make the right choices. An excerpt from this poem states: With these simple tests glaucoma can be staged, And the earlier it is done you ll have the advantage. Empowerment is vey much needed and it happens through the steps of being...
