

The Cham of Vietnam: History, Society & Art

By Lockhart, Bruce & Tran Ky Phuong

NUS Press, Singapore, 2011. Soft cover. Condition: New. This book is a collection of articles re-assessing the role of the Cham in Vietnamese history. Although the Cham never established a nation state, between the third and fifteenth centuries this people, with Malay connections overlaid with an Indianised civilisation, vied with the Vietnamese and Khmers for control of much of mainland Southeast Asia. The study of their history has been subject to different interpretations from the colonial to the revolutionary. Now that Vietnam has been able to emerge as a more confident nation state, their history can be re-assessed. The papers include 1 - Colonial and Post-Colonial Constructions of "Champa" - Bruce M. Lockhart, 2 - Excavations at Go Cam, Quang Nam, 2000-3: Linyi and the Emergence of the Cham Kingdom - Ian Glover and Nguyen Kim Dung, 3 - Tra Kieu during the Second and Third Centuries CE: The Formation of Linyi from an Archaeological Perspective - Yamagata Mariko, 4 - River Settlement and Coastal Trade: Towards a Specific Model of Early State Development in Champa - William A. Southworth, 5 - "Mandala Champa" Seen from Chinese Sources - Momoki Shiro, 6 - The "Account of Champa" in the...
